THE LATE ANTHONY BUCHLY.

Incidents in the Life of a Remarkably Charitable Man.

Since the death of Anthony Buchly many instances of his generosity have come to light which show how kindly a heart beat under his rough exterior. No one knows the amount of unostentatious charity Mr. Buchly distributed, and had a generous act of his found its way to the pub-lic during his lifetime the individual or organiza-tion that had made known the fact would never again have been the recipient of his bounty. Talking with a gentleman who had known Mr.

The literative of the Republican said to him: "Tell me a few of the incidents to which you

There are so many," said he, "that I scarcely know where to begin. However, one or two will do for illustration. At the Company A fair Mr. Buchly confidently expected that Engine Company No. 2 would win the billiard-table. So confident was he and his friends that their very con-fidence induced them to relax their efforts, and when the votes were counted it was found that No. 1 Company, in the First Ward, was the winner. The next morning a party of gentlemen were talk-ing over the matter, and Mr. Buchly came up. He seemed very much chagrined to think that his fayorite company had lost, and, as he expressed ittle spiritual life into your own soul? Had you not better help light the lamps than put them out? Help make the world better; build charitable institutions; seek out poverty and relieve it. Willett, who was of the party, he said: 'You order that table to-day.' The table was ordered, and, al-though it was supposed to have been the donation of the business men on Pennsylvania avenue between Ninth and Tenth streets, Mr. Buchly con-tributed the largest portion of its cost."

Mr. Buchly was an honorary member both of sked The Refuelican.

"Yes." was the reply. "I well remember whithe Riffes first started. He met one of the men and asked in his gruff way, 'What all this splitting and row meant.' It was explained to him that there was no row; it was a difference of carticles and results and the results and the results are the results and the results are the results and results are the results and results are the results and results are the r was no row; it was a difference of opinion and that the city was big enough for two military or-ganizations. 'So it is,' he responded; 'propose me as an honorary member. I may be blackballed, but if I am keep the money,' and he gave the gen-tleman a bill representing double the amount of the dues of an honorary member. 'But, Mr. Buchly, said the Rifferman, 'this is too much money.' 'All right,' said he, 'keep it. There may be some fellow who will want that much to pay on his uniform. But don't you say a word about it.' Another instance comes to my mind. During the inauguration ceremonies the Riffes were assigned to receive General Shoriday, and were assigned to receive General Sheridan, and as one of them was standing on the corner of Ninth street and Pennsylvania avenue Mr. Buchly came along, and, slipping a large-sized bill into his hand, said, " Take this; it will help buy fireworks; but don't dare to say that I gave it. That which most reflects credit upon him, however, was what he did so far as the Masonic Mutual Relief and the Masonic Endowment Associations were concerned. I know that he told the secretary that whenever the death assessments became due and he knew of any Masons who were out of work and unable to pay to send the cards to him and he would give the money, and I believe he has paid hundreds of dollars in this manner, and none but the secretary and he knew where the money came from."

The large amount named in his will for charitable purposes, the items of which were published in THE REPUBLICAN ON MONDAY last, shows how deep an interest Mr. Buculy took in all organizations for the relief of the worthy poor, and the number of those who have had cause to bless his quiet and unassuming charity will probably never the Sculptor. Mr. Flannery, the sculptor who carved the Lincoin Statue, now left high and dry in front of the City Hall owing to the improvements that have recently been made there, thinks that the statue should be lowered about twelve feet. This can be done by taking away the cappings on top of the shaft, together with a section of the shaft, and by sinking the base some two or three feet. He thinks the statue is now too high, and that the change would enable the features to be more plainly seen. Chief-Justice Cartier is said to take a special interest in this statue, which is the first

Burke-Payne-Phillips. The two men, Poulton and Phillips who were before the County Court in Alexandria Va., last week on suspicion of fraudulently obtaining from Louis E. Payne $105, went to Alexandria yesterday, and meeting Mr. Edmund Burke in front of the Tontine Hotel, one of them, Poulton, called him aside. While Mr. Barke and Poulton were engaged in conversation Phillips came up and drew back a heavy stick, as if in the act of strik ing the former, when a friend stepped in and pre-wented the blow. Mr. Burke knew nothing of the intention of Phillips until he was in-formed by friends after the departure of the two

AFTER INGERSOLL

PRAYER AND A SUPREME BEING

Waves of Porce-Prayer Executially Subjective-The Great Infidel's Premises Wrong-What Peaper Is-What Paul Says About It. To the Editor of THE REPUBLICANT

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, the most magnificent blackguard on the earth to-day, sits as an automaton revealing to reporters the ereat secret of the universe, and tells a lost and sined race that he is glad Guiteau, the assassin, is not an infidel, as if a murderer could be a Chris-tian. Ingersoll forgots that the assassin Guiteau was an infidel for fifteen years, and aped the Colonel even to his style of speech. Any man, whether a member of a church or not, that could say, a: Gultean did, that "Life is only a filmsy dream," is to Christian, but an infidel. It is heart stekening to read the sermons of the pulpit on prayer and special providence, and these follies INCRESOLL IMPUTES TO GOD and the Savieur. There is a wave of force that travels from brain to brain, from heart to heart, en rapport over the world, so that when the glass bomb ended the life of the Czar of Bussia the telegraph trembled with the current that shocked the New World. This is the power that commu-nicates life to the world; this is the magic that sways men, and the Colonel never could have written his lectures had there been no Bible. Where is the Colonel's benevolence? Where are the almsuses of his school? Where are the charities for the poor and needy? Will his apostles snawer?

WHEN ANNANIAS WAS TOLD
"Behold Paul prayeth," that prayer moved a world.

It vibrated through a world that had stoned Stephen, who had prayed in the presence of Paul, and that prayer was answered in a practical way Prayer is essentially subjective at Damascus. Prayer is essentially subjective, and by eternal law must necessarily be so, and the blabbing theological fools of Pocasset and Salt Lake City are the extreme upon the one side and Colonel Ingersoll's school the extreme upon the other. If the first lesson to man was that he is a god, why should the Colonel think it incredible that one should ask his Father, the Almighty, for must be set the colonel that the should ask his Father, the Almighty, for a pure heart? God does not interfere with a ray of light that comes quivering to us from the ocean waves of the sun. He does not deflect bullets nor appear upon battle-fields.

praying for the success of slavery and his generals upon the battle-field with the Bible in one hand and a sword in the other, and Colonel Ingersoll standing before a vast audience saying, "Here is your Bible and here are your Christians." If the Airsichte is on the side of Paris he exhading Almighty is on the side of Davis, he got badly whipped. Well, Colonel, your mistake is that God is on no man's side. God is on His own side and no other. The great scene painted upon the can-vas of Heaven has not yet been unrolled. We are but events in this great panorama that is passing onward forever. Colonel Ingersoil's premises are as terribly wrong as the Athanasian creed. Science tells us that it is an eternal truth that the dropping of a pebble upon the water carries waves through the universe for-ever, so that to-day the battle of Waterloo is going on in the heavens as it did on the terrible 18th of June, 1815, on Mount 8t Jean.

TOUCH THE RIGHT CHORD OR WIRE. and your message goes to the bosom of God. Touch the right wire and you reach the hearts of men. To say that millions of systems of worlds were erected from nothing is to talk nonsense. To say that there can be no intelligent governor of the universe is to deny one's own eyesight and one's own existence, for there is not a day but we see intelligence governing matter. To say that all other worlds contain no intelligent life is to deny life in this world. Man is a god, and controls force and matter. May it not be that God's eternal law has made prayer eternal? If friends and good cheer raises the sick, is not that prayer in itself? I care not who the man is, or what position he oc-cupies, there are times in his life when the soul is on its kness. If, on the battle-field, a cheer sometimes leads to victory,

LEUGE CALL IT PRAYER;
if the beating the charge in the rough and rugged places on the Alps carried Napoleon's army over, let us call that prayer. It is the great onward march of God Almighty. Jesus has never yet been preached. Dogmas and creeds have taken the piace of the Saviour of the World. Jesus was a practical man—a divine being that labored to better the race—and yet in His name they have reared fessor R. T. Greener, and to-day he will be entermighty edifices and in His name committed many brutal murders. Man, the animal, has had the sway in our world: man, the spiritual, will yet take it. Colonel Ingersoll, is it not strange that Paul never mentions a miracle or wonder formed by Jesus, but preaches a living Christ? Do you remember that Paul kneeled down on the beach of the Mediterranean and prayed? Do you know that that prayer has traveled all along the Prayer is to mould our own hearts to purity, and when we are pure others catch the flame. Had when we are pure others catch the flame. Had you not, Colonel, better come down from your lofty state of criticising the Almighty and get a little spiritual life into your own soul? Had you not better help light the lamps than put them he, the Government will take immended the light the lamps than put them had been suggested with arms and ammunition. In the event of the charges being sustained, and the indications now are that they will not better help light the lamps than put them have been suggested. Wil, sarcasm, theology, and science never yet bound up the broken-hearted nor relieved the needy or afflicted. Between yourself and the preachers of to-day, yesterday, and forever I have no choice. except that I wish that both were abolished. To silence you and build up the Church would be a grievouscurse; to silence them and let you go on would indeed be awful. Let us eliminate from the world both, and then "Let us have peace."

Man Who Earns His Money Henry Raff, a bursted dry-goods dealer and ex-lager-beer-saloon-keeper, is now employed by the District authorities as a follower of commercial travelers who come into the city to sell goods without a license. His mode of operation is in this wise: He watches at the depots for the drummers, follows them around the city until he catches them in the act of selling, and then calls a police officer to arrest them. Some months ago Raff sent a man into a certain drug store to buy whisky, then informed on the proprietor for selling without a wholesale license, and used his confed-erate as a witness in the case. Raff gets $1,800 a year, and is supplied with a horse and wagon by the authorities. Major Morgan says that he is one of the most valuable men in the employ of the Dis-mething for a Certain Cabinet Official to Rend Carefully and Digest Inwardly.

To the Editor of THE REPUBLICANT To the Editor of THE REPUBLICAN:

This is a very peculiar world in some respects, and I often wonder if the inhabitants of other planets are in any way affected by influences, feelings, or passions similar to those which affect us. For instance, let there be started any sect, creed, doctrine, or theory, however foolish, ridiculous, or senseless, and it has its following. Mother Shipton had her followers, though not organized as a body, with a directing head centre. Miller had his followers in the ing head centre. Miller had his followers in the Millerites. Smith has his followers in the Mor-mons: even Dennis Kearney has his followers, in the anti-bloated bankers and Hades-hound landgrabbers; and, without touching on a tithe of the list, I propose to show that even "Old Double S" has his following, and that, too, raised to promihorse is an animal; donkeys are not horses; there-fore they are not animals. THE MINISTER TO LIBERIA.

Interesting Incidents in the Life of Dr. Garnett. Dr. H. H. Garnett, the new minister to Liberia, called upon the Secretary of State yesterday and received his credentials and instructions. and subsequently was introduced to the various heads of bureaus. A representative of THE REPUBLICAN called upon Dr. Garnett last evening, at the residence of Alexander Marshall, csq., No. 1018 Fifteenth street, and found him surrounded by a circle of friends. In reply to a question, the Doctor said that he had constituted to the business that called him. We have to a question, the Doctor said that he had con-cluded the business that called him to Washing-ton, but would spend a few days renewing old as-sociations and calling upon old friends; that he expected to leave for his post about the last of September or the first part of October, it being de-sirable to delay long enough to avoid the rainy season of the tropics. He said he was much struck with the great changes that have been effected in Washington since the days of '63, at which time he passed through the city on his way to the front, he passed through the city on his way to the front where he officiated as chaplain to the first three colored regiments that entered the United States service. Dr. Garnett is of pure African descent, his grandfather having been brought to this country in a slave ship and landed on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The daughter of Dr. Garnett is at present in Liberia, and is conducting a missionary school for African girls at Brewerville, a point on the St. Paul River some twenty miles from Monrovia, and, strange to say, the children attending the school and under her direction are the descendants of the very tribe to which her great grandfather belonged. Last evening the Doctor had a number of distinguished visitors, among whom were Postmaster-General James, Hon. Fred of the Sunday Rem. Yesterday he dined with Pro-fessor R. T. Greener, and to-day he will be enter-tained by Dr. Alexander Crummell.

INDIAN POW-WOW.

An portant Conference to be Held Here Next Month.

The big Indian council to be held in this city next month will be a peculiarly interest-ing gathering of the noble red men. The object of council is to investigate and discuss charges that have been made at various times, that un-authorized persons, Americans and foreigners, have been engaged in furnishing several of the for all who have suffered by such action. Dr. J 8. Cannon, chief guide and interpreter of the United States, has been engaged in working this matter up for more than a year past, and has collected a large quantity of evidence in regard to it which has been submitted to Hecretary Kirkwood. Representatives of nine tribes, representing nearly ninety thousand Indians, have been summoned to attend the big council, and, in addition, the twelve hundred Indian children from the Carlisle (Pa.) school will attend. Some of the most prominent chiefs expected to attend are Spotted Tail, Red Cloud, and No Flesh, of the Sioux: Iron Shirt and Stone Calf, of the Southert Cheyennes: Little Priest, of the Arrapahoes; Lit tle Bear, of the Kiowas : the Germaine Sisters, and hat, but not least, the notorious Sitting Bull. From the latter it is expected that some important in-formation will be elicited in connection with his ong stay on the Canadian border.

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Interesting Essay on Bacteria and Its Re lations to Plant Culture.

The regular monthly meeting of the Columbia Horticultural Society was held at German Hall last night, John Saul, csq., presiding, and Mr. Warrington Gillingham officiating as secretary. Professor Thomas Taylor was the essayist of the evening and read a most admirable paper on bacteria, a microscopic plant, and its relations to plant culture. During the course of his remarks Professor Taylor touched on the subject of pear tree blight, and produced several specimen slips of was not subject to blight, upon which were well-developed patches of the fungi. Throughout went-developed patches of the fungt. Inrougnout his interesting dissertation Professor Taylor was listened to with marked attention by a highly appreciative audience, and at the close of his remarks a vote of thanks was tendered him by the society. The display of cut flowers was very fine, as was also the pomoiogical display, which embraced some dozen varieties of apples grown in Victibia and the District. These were subhitted. Opposing an Audacious Ctaim. Mrs. Marilla M. Ricker, a lady well and favorably known in this city, where she spends the winters, is raising a sensation in New Hampshire by opposing before the Governor and Council of that State, a claim for the reimbursement of John C. Pillsbury, late warden of the State prison at Concord, N. H. It appears Pillsbury, who is a notorious prison manager, was bounced from his position for wrongdoing and cruelty through the efforts of Mrs. Ricker and others. He has since put in a claim for $3,300, expenses incurred in defending himself when on trial. The Dover Daily Democrat says of this claim that it should not be paid, and that taking the people's money for any such purpose "would be simply robbing the public Treasury." Speaking of Mrs. Ricker, the same paper says "He is a lady of character, wealth, and ability, who has always taken a deep interest in the subject of our prisons and their management

ORKNEY SPRINGS.

How to Reach a Virginia Summer Resert -The People There.

ORENEY SPRINGS, VA., July 26.—It is with many regrets that it becomes necessary for me to contradict a malicious and uncalled-for report that has circulated through an issue of one of the daily papers, and had its origin in Capon Springs, the rival resort of Orkney Springs, that the latter is closed for the aummer. I will at least exonerate the proprieter of the former. I can attest that Orkney is not closed, but, on the contrary, in its most flourishing condition, as will the register of Orkney carrier. I there are a least 50 guests Orkney certify; that there are at least 250 guests risticating there at the present writing, which is a very satisfactory showing, for the proprietor at least. I deem it unbecessary for me to dilate on the beauties that encompass one on all sides in the generally arduous ride through the heated Valley of Virginia, as I am satisfied most of my readers have low stoom pade the accumulations. But for has his following, and that, too, raised to prominence by having a representative in the Cabinet councils of our Nation. The following will show have long since made the acquaintance. But, for how the last-named denomination originated; the convenience and comfort of those who are once upon a time there lived a man whose name — but his name and whether he lived in Washington or Bedlam is a matter it matters but little to know. He was a matter it matters but little to know. He was a televen o'clocka. In. you arrive at the renowned man of unique ideas, and the most unique of his the accommodation of the company, become acaman of unique ideas, and the most unique of his ideas was his peculiar theory of practical economy as applied to animal subsistence. What his course of reasoning or logical form of argument was on this scientific subject was has never been made known to the thin...ing world; but it may be surmised that it was somewhat as follows: "Every horse is an animal; donkeys are not horses; therefore they are not animals. Now, a donkey not being an animal or animated being, there is no valid reason why it should require food or fodder to sustain animal life." This man's peculiar theory being based upon the self-sustaining "principle, his neighbors dubbed him "Old Double S," with as sly "A" prefixed. Old double S, with an A, desiring to put his pet idea to a practical test, daily reduced the fodder ration of his donkey, and by this descending series of progression help time came to the testing point of his theory. We will let him announce the result in his own peculiar way. It appears from this announcement that "Old Double S" is yet satisfied as to the correctness of theory, and that the failure of the test was entirely owing are now fully equipped for enjoyment in every read that the failure of the test was entirely owing appear. The invigorating air sharpens all your the genial agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail and that the failure of the test was entirely owing to one of those fortuitous circumstances of uncertainty in life. Simonon, who has occupied the position of general agent of the New York Associated Press for the past fourteen years, to-day tendered his resignation, and Mr. James C. Desire to attend to his private business was the main cause for Mr. Simonton severing his connection, and the association, in accepting his resig-nation at a full meeting to-day, authorized the executive committee to express their appreciation of his services in the following communication:

The executive committee of the Associated Press,

Simonton as general agent of the association, reports as follows: That Mr. Simonton has been the general agent of the association sluce November 5, 1895, and that in all these years be has discharged the duties of his responsible and arduous work with great fidelity to the several members of the association, and with general acceptance to the public. The office is one which requires capacity, integrity, and industry, and we have never found the general agent wanting in any of these qualities. Mr. Simonton leaves the association of his own free will, and not at the request or wish of any of its members. In accepting his resignation our best wishes go with him for his complete restoration to health, for personal happiness and prosperity in all the future of his life. pression of opinion of the association in regard to the voluntary retirement of James W. A Reply to "Fair Piny." To the Editor of THE REPUBLICAN:

"Fair Play" is the misnomer assumed by a writer who complains of the industry of some men of large families who work evenings at pri-vate jobs of bookbinding after their day's work in the Government bindery. I am confident that "Fair Play" is some botch of a workman, or more likely proprietor of a private bindery that does poor work and secures little custom, who wants good and industrious workmen to stop in order that his inferior services may be unduly rewarded or that his shop may be more profitable. But, in any case, does not his own admission that the men walked up the stoop of the capitol and was about to enter the building, when the superintendent of the building, Thomas Hyde, rollicing the strange appearance of the man, who was carrying an oldfashioned gun on his shoulder, stopped him and saked where he was going. He replied: "I am adjutant-general of this State." Hyde, judging that the man was crazy, and fearing that some harm to the State officials was intended, asked for the gun. The stranger declined to give it up, whereupon a desperate brurging ensued for its possible. It there is the proper to the stranger of the stranger declined to give it up, whereupon a desperate brurging ensued for its possible. hour law, and have spent more money and time to secure its enforcement than "Fair Play," I am very sure, and I propose to continue my efforts in that direction.
